

“Doing the right thing never felt so good.”

Offering a wide selection of 100% recycled papers, vegetable based inks and waterless printing, Maud Street Group makes going green easier and more affordable than ever.

Do what is best for the environment and take an echo friendly approach to your next printed piece. Mother nature will thank you.

A little hint – your clients will thank you for using sustainable materials for your marketing materials. After all, getting your message out there is not worth damaging the environment. The consequences are just too great. With Maud Street Group you can get your message out there in a responsible manner, and do it without compromising on quality and cost.

Doing the right thing not only feels good but is profitable as well. In this day and age consumers want to know that they are doing business with responsible companies. In the long run we all have to develop greener practices, so why not start now with Maud Street Group.

Make an appointment with one of our print specialist and we will do a complete environmental audit of your marketing materials and help you go green.

Did you know?

Did you know that unless you use a window envelope with a biodegradable window it is garbage, not recyclable? Maud Street Group can source the environmental alternative in all cases.
